Ardross Clinic Opens for Treatment

On the afternoon of Saturday 4th February, Health Central OTI held the opening function of its new Ardross clinic.

Friends, clients and community members were invited to explore the new location, which includes local artwork and a relaxing café-style waiting area.

Nibbles and drinks were provided while guests and staff chatted.

Practitioners Laurie, Sue and Larissa gave visitors the opportunity to experience a range of musculoskeletal therapy techniques.

Mrs Tania Barrett,
senior lecturer at Edith

Cowan University's School of Occupational Therapy was present to show her support for the new clinic.

Occupational therapists were able to view the new clinic and meet the staff, patients and friends.

Health Central OTI practitioners are able to treat a variety of issues, including stiffness, pain and restricted movement.

Health Central OTI's patients vary widely, ranging between newborn babies, elite athletes and the elderly.
